Be careful to print plainly, and use only black ink. Do not abbreviate. Give number of house if possible. Fill in all blanks for which you have data. Be particular and exact. Name and surname of deceased must be given in full, and the maiden name of every married woman. Write the word "None" where there is no entry to be made, except in the case of "Date of Death" and "Color or Race." Give exact date of birth in each case and the age at last birthday. In the case of infants, the age should be given in days if less than one day, in months if less than one year. The space for "Occupation" must be filled in with the actual occupation of every person dying, whether male or female, whether single, married, widowed or divorced. The entry must show not only the trade, profession or particular kind of work, but also the general nature of the industry, business or establishment with which the deceased was connected, thus supplying the information required to properly classify the occupation. See instructions on back of certificates. This certificate must be filled out in full, and the physician must sign his name and address. Carefully read the certificate before signing. Cause of death must be stated in plain English.
